EVENT NAME: Tuia 250 Voyage Trainee Privacy Breach	Report Number: #5 (updated information in red)
From: Bernadette Cavanagh, Chief Executive, MCH	Date issued: 26/08/2019 Time issued: 5.00 pm
Event details
There has been a digital privacy breach involving personal information collected by Manatū Taonga Ministry for Culture and Heritage (MCH). The breach affects 302 applicants to MCH's Tuia 250 Voyage Trainee programme. On Thursday 22 August, MCH became aware that images of applicants' identification documents such as passports, birth certificates and driver licences were available online. Applicants had submitted these documents to the Tuia 250 website as part of the online application process. The website is specific to the Tuia 250 commemoration and was procured from a web developer.
Response structure
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A Cross-Government Response Team has been assembled• MCH is the lead agency and is being supported by incident response specialists from MSD• The team is operating according to National Security System procedures• MCH has received advice from a range of government agencies including Government Chief Privacy Officer, Office of the Privacy Commissioner, State Services Commission, Department of Internal Affairs, MBIE, MFAT, NZTA, GCSB and NZ Police.
Response objectives
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Build a comprehensive understanding of the situation and the information that has been compromised• Minimise harm to affected individuals• Communicate openly and transparently with affected individuals and the public• Ensure the Ministry can deliver Tuia 250 securely and confidently.
Information security
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• All copies of personal information were removed from the Tuia 250 website on Thursday 22 August, and the site was made unavailable to the public• Some images are still appearing in online searches• We have asked Google and other search engine companies to remove images from their caches• Content uploaded by users was widely accessible due to insufficient controls on the Tuia 250 site• Forensic testing indicates that all 302 applicants' information had been accessed, in some instances multiple times• Paul James, Chief Executive of DIA, has emailed Chief Executives reminding them of Government Chief Digital Officer guidance on security and privacy policy good practice, and asking them to provide assurance that they have adequate security and privacy controls in place for any public facing websites

- MCH will agree protocols with partner agencies to ensure all sensitive information shared during the response is appropriately managed
- MCH has initiated testing of its other websites to be assured that there are no further vulnerabilities in our digital presence
- At present, the Tuia 250 website remains unavailable to the public. As this is a critical tool for the project, MCH is working with the Office of the Government Chief Digital Officer to identify options for relocating the site to the Government common web platform, and relaunching it
- New Zealand Police cyber security has offered to create flags for all affected people in their system so they can provide heightened levels of support to any individuals affected by future identity crime linked to this event. Police will also be investigating who might have accessed the website before it was made unavailable.

Communications

With affected individuals
